design-wise, the ml360p continues with the tried-and-true master liquid design. the silver edition has the same height as the ml360r, but the silver edition is only slightly wider. the aluminum fins on the case are 4mm thick, and have a pattern of concentric circles. the fins are painted silver, except for the center fin where it is left white. as you can see, the fins are very thin and aren't made of more than one piece of metal. this is one of the signs that the master liquid is a well designed liquid cooler. looking at the master liquid ml360p silver edition, you will notice two big differentiations from the rest of the master liquid lineup. first, the fins on the ml360p have a unique shape, being concave in the back. this convex shape provides more air movement than the standard ml360r, which has a flat back. second, the ml360p comes with a 3×120mm fan module. the ml360r has a 2×120mm fan module. the 3×120mm fan module is twice as big, but much more efficient. in fact, cooler master claims that the ml360p is so efficient, it will provide enough cooling to an i7 cpu (non-k). the master liquid ml360p silver edition comes with two fans, a 120mm front fan and a rear 120mm fan. the front fan has the same dimensions as the ml360r, with a diameter of 120mm and a height of 50mm. the fan blades are also made of pwm black aluminum. it is compatible with both pwm and 4-pin fans. the fan blades are attached to a plastic fan frame, which is attached to the liquid cooler and the motherboard. like on the ml360r, the fan on the front side is controlled by the master liquid system. the rear fan is controlled by the motherboard.
